

Finns Help Nazis Close Supply Line

U. S. War Secretary Says Germans Are Using Finnish Soldiers in Murmansk Area

News Is Deplored

U. S. Lease-Lend Goods Are Being Cut Off From Russians

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson charged today that Finnish troops "are now being used by the Germans" in such a way as to help the Germans close the Murmansk-Moscow supply line over which outside aid flows into Russia.

In a statement issued simultaneously with that of the secretary, Major General James H. Burns, deputy lend-lease administrator who recently returned from Russia, also declared that the Finns "are offering Germany great assistance in cutting across our national interest in the supply of lend-lease material to Russia."

Both Stimson and Burns said they deplored the Finnish position and declared that it should be altered.

"It is regrettable," Stimson said, "that the Finnish army should allow this condition to continue. It is not only inimical to the final interest of Finland, but it enables Germany to concentrate her efforts on a line harmful to the interest of the United States."

Burns said that he thought the situation was one "which all Finland's well wishers in the United States regret and would want to see terminated as soon as practicable."

Stimson was on the White House calling list today for what was described there as a "check-up conference." Also seeing Mr. Roosevelt at the time were Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of Navy Knox, General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations.

Usually the Chief Executive tries to see this group at least once a week to check up on defense plans and efforts.

The Stimson-Burns statements were issued through Brigadier General Alexander D. Surles, army chief of public relations, who said that numerous inquiries had prompted them.

The inquiries were made, Surles said, after Hull had discussed Finland's part in the war and the administration had made it clear that in its opinion the Finns should cease aggressive warfare against Russia.

Stimson referred to the "laudable ambition of the Finnish nation to recover ground lost to the Russians in the last war between these nations," but he said that regardless of that ambition now "it is evident that the Finns are now being used by the Germans to further the German efforts to defeat the Russian forces in the Leningrad-Lake Onega theater."

Chilean President Dies

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 25 (AP)—President Pedro Aguirre Cerda of Chile, who had headed South America's first and only popular front government, died today. He had turned over the powers of the presidency temporarily to Gerónimo Méndez, leader of the radical party, on November 10 because of failing health.

Keyes Airs Views

Tells Commons Whitehall War Bosses Are Using Negative Power

London, Nov. 25 (AP)—Admiral of the fleet, Sir Roger Keyes, World War hero, who recently was relieved of command of the "Comandante" shock and invasion troops which he had trained, bitterly criticized today "the negative power which controls the war machine in Whitehall."

Making his attack in the House of Commons, Sir Roger, who had been called from retirement to train the strategic shock troops, declared that if his men had been allowed to act a year ago they "might have electrified the world and altered the whole course of the war."

Republican Club To Honor Elting In New York City

National Organization Will Present Memorial at Meeting, Will Cite His Long Record

At the meeting of the National Republican Club in New York city this evening a memorial to the late Philip Elting, Ulster county Republican leader for more than 30 years, will be presented.

The memorial has been drafted by Oscar W. Ehrhorn, referee in bankruptcy in the district court of the Southern District of New York, who had been a personal friend of the late Mr. Elting for a number of years.

The memorial recites the early life of Mr. Elting; of his admittance to the state bar; of his taking over the leadership of the Ulster county Republican organization in 1904, serving continuously as chairman up to the time of his death; his service as shipping commissioner of the Port of New York; his work as county attorney and as corporation counsel of the city of Kingston.

"His influence was not restricted to Ulster county," reads the memorial "for his quiet and unassuming manner, as well as his keen mind and wise judgment, resulted in his soon surrounding himself with a host of friends of standing influence, and many times when state controversies arose in and out of the party, it was Philip Elting who was summoned to advise and counsel the party leaders, so that he soon became recognized as a power in state politics."

Bridgeport Paper Ends Its Publication Today

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 25 (AP)—The Times-Star, afternoon daily founded in 1790 as the Republican Farmer, carries on its first page today an announcement that publication was being suspended as of today.

"Confronting a difficult and uncertain future, the Times-Star reluctantly has decided to end with this issue today its long and honorable career as an independent Connecticut newspaper," the announcement said.

The newspaper is owned by the Times-Star Company of which H. S. Talmadge is the president and employs 150 persons in all departments.

James L. McGovern, chairman of the Connecticut Associated Press, is editor and Howard I. Comstock is managing editor. George C. Waldo, editor-in-chief of the Bridgeport Post and Telegram, announced that the name and publication rights of the Times-Star had been acquired by his papers.

"However," said Waldo, "we do not contemplate any use of them." The suspension leaves the afternoon Post and the Morning Telegram, jointly owned by the Post Company, as the only daily newspapers here.

All are members of the Associated Press.

Waldo declared that the action of the Times-Star had been taken independently and that its disappearance from the field did not constitute a merger with his papers.

Laborite Asks Duke, Wife Be Recalled

London, Nov. 25 (AP)—The recent visit of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor to the United States was criticized in the house of commons by Laborite Alexander Sloan today, who asked:

"Is the undersecretary aware of the bitter comment being made in United States newspapers regarding this visit, more especially with regard to the ostentatious display of jewelry and finery at a period when people of this country are strictly rationed, and if so, will he make representations to the prime minister to have this gentleman and his wife recalled?"

C. H. Hall, undersecretary for colonies, replied, "No, sir, the colonial secretary's attention has not been called to the matter referred to."

U. S. to Grant Yule Furloughs to Army

About Half Armed Forces Will Go Home for Year's No. 1 Holiday

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—The army said Merry Christmas a month in advance today—with the tidings that between 700,000 and 800,000 soldiers would get Yule-time furloughs.

By the war department's estimate, approximately half of the land forces will be granted leaves to go home for the holidays and this raised the prospect of the biggest Christmas transportation rush in more than two decades.

Belief was expressed, nevertheless, that there would be enough trains for the troops, without undue snarling of railway passenger or freight schedules.

In cooperation with the Association of American Railways, plans are being made to move service men to their homes well in advance of the rush which normally reaches a peak on Christmas Eve.

As far as possible, soldiers are to be released on two dates, December 12 and December 20, depending on whether they receive furloughs of one month or two weeks. They are due back in the ranks on January 12 and January 4 respectively.

Prisoner of War Escapes

Bowmanville, Ont., Nov. 25 (AP)—A German prisoner of war, Lieut. Von Gergenkrasse, escaped last night from an internment camp near this town, 35 miles east of Toronto. The escape was discovered when guards found the wires disturbed in a double fence around the camp.

Poughkeepsie Officials Review Defense Needs, Explain Cut Among Their Workers

In line with rumors that the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation has been sold to the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, the main office of the Central Hudson today denied the reports.

A query by The Freeman early today at the Poughkeepsie headquarters of the corporation regarding the rumored sale brought a statement from officials of the Central Hudson Corporation.

Additional rumors contingent upon the reported eliminations of certain workers were explained by the Central Hudson management as brought about because of continued increases in taxes, labor and material costs and the demands of national defense.

The statement said it appears at present that defense priorities will not affect the maintenance program of the corporation and it is expected work will be provided for the regular forces of the company. When employees have been cut from the payroll, the statement says, "liberal separation allowances have been made."

Text of Statement

The text of the statement is as follows:

"Our attention has been called to the fact that an unfounded rumor has been spread throughout the Central Hudson territory to the effect that the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, which has been sold to the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation."

"While it has been the policy of the Central Hudson Company to disregard such rumors in the past the persistence of the present local discussion is such that the management wishes to make the following statement: Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, which now holds and has for many years held approximately 30 per cent of the common stock of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, has expressed no intention to increase its Central Hudson holdings, and could not in fact do so without the approval of the Public Service Commission of the State of New York."

"Niagara Hudson or its affiliated interests has made no suggestion whatsoever in regard to the purchase of the Central Hudson Company and Central Hudson has had no discussions with any outside interest."

Ulster County Nursing Service Gives Its First Annual Report to Board

The first annual report of the Ulster County Nursing Service covering a period from April 1, 1941, to November 1, 1941, was submitted by the committee to the Board of Supervisors at the session Monday evening. This report showed the work which has been accomplished throughout the county during the past few months since the service was inaugurated. Last year $12,000 was raised by the board to carry on the work but because of a large balance on hand at this time due to the late start of the work the committee recommended raising but $6,000 for the ensuing year.

The report of the committee in part follows:

"Three of the county nurses, Miss Hilda Hart, Mrs. Beatrice Taylor and Mrs. Edna Bishop, reported for duty April 15, and the fourth nurse, Miss Wilma Petroff was appointed June 1. The two state health department nurses already in the county, Miss Marie Deyo and Miss Anna C. Cassidy, were retained. Miss Aileen Fitzgerald was appointed to Ulster county and Mrs. Katherine McKevitt was sent to Ulster county on July 15. One of the county nurses, Mrs. Edna Bishop, resigned on September 1. Mrs. Beatrice Taylor, county nurse, is resigning on January 1. On November 1, three additional county nurses were appointed. Miss Nancy M. Brown, to report for duty on January 2, 1942. Miss Maria Berens, to report for duty December 15, and Miss Harriett Love, to report for duty on December 1. Thus by January 1 a full complement of five county nurses is expected to be on duty.

The county has been divided into nine districts with a nurse assigned to each district. The program conducted has been a generalized service where the nurse

British Say Nazi Supply Lines Are Being Cut in Libya; Reds Make Valuable Gains in Donets

Thinking Thirteen Toy With Hitler's Anti-Red Hates

Fuehrer Is Furnishing All Main Thoughts at Talks in Berlin to Start 'New Order'

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Freeman Special News Service)

Thirteen had better be somebody's lucky number—having especially in mind Herr Hitler and Comrade Stalin—what with seven new governments joining the Nazi-sponsored six-nation Anti-Comintern Pact (that is, anti-Communist) at the fuhrer's Berlin conference today.

These thirteen governments, headed by the Reich, are giving what Berlin calls "a demonstration of defensive will to oppose all destructive powers which directly or indirectly support Bolshevism."

Observers took this to include Uncle Sam and John Bull, who are giving Russia war-aid.

The thirteen also represent "an alliance which will create the preconditions for a new order in Europe and for the application of principles of a new order in the entire world." So Herr Hitler is, after all, doing a bit of world-wide thinking.

However, the Anti-Comintern Pact in itself has to do with Herr Hitler's avowed determination to destroy Communism. Since Stalin also is out to smash Nazism, the number thirteen becomes a matter of no ordinary importance.

This is particularly true because, as previously suggested in this column, either the Nazi government or the Communist government is likely to disappear in this war. It seems impossible for both to survive in view of the undoubted determination of each to destroy the other. We also have the allied avowal to wipe out Hitlerism.

What Will Stalin Do?

Today's development in Berlin makes particularly pertinent a query which I have from a Wisconsin editor. He is wondering what part Stalin is likely to play when it comes to deciding the fate of the German people in a peace conference, assuming for the sake of argument that the allies win. Will the Communist chief view the same as those of Britain and America?

Well, first off, the Nazi form of government presumably will have to go, and there will be no dispute between the allies on that point. It isn't unlikely that Herr Hitler and his principal aides also will be dealt with, so to make sure that they don't start a new conflagration from some spark in the ashes of the old.

However, the allies have avowed that they aren't out to crush the German people, and there seems to me to be no reason to believe that Russia won't adhere to this declaration. But there can be small doubt that Moscow intends to bring Germany, and the rest of Europe, for that matter, under Communist influence.

It's logical to assume that Stalin will insist on rectification of his western frontiers for defensive purposes. He will want back the territories lost in this war, and that will affect Finland, the Baltic states and Rumania. In order to insure Russia's domination of the vital Black Sea, Stalin likely will insist on control of the three mouths of the great Danube on the Rumanian coast; he probably will demand the Rumanian seaport of Constanta for a naval base, and

Two Billion Dollar Splurge Is Ahead for U. S. at Christmas

Trade Experts Make Forecast Based on Defense Money; Volume Would Dwarf 1929 Sales

Chicago, Nov. 25 (AP)—Spurred by the jingle of national defense dollars, a $2,400,000,000 national shopping splurge is in the making this season, merchandise trade experts here estimated today.

Such a volume of business would exceed that of the boom year, 1929, by more than 5 per cent and would be 11 per cent more than last year.

These estimates were compiled in a survey of the nation's wholesale and retail trade during the last 12 years prepared under the direction of Percy Wilson, director of Chicago's merchandise mart.

With preparations complete for the flood of buying already under way in the name of Santa Claus, merchandisers were reported by mart officials to be ready with shelves and display rooms well stocked despite priorities and material shortages.

Considering the increased flow of dollars, merchandisers do not expect higher costs of goods, taxes, restrictions on installment buying and shortages of some materials to stem the trade volume.

Wilson said the survey showed that although holiday business will be the largest on record, it will not keep pace with the year's average increase of 18.9 per cent in retail trade so far because there was an unusual spurt in Christmas sales last year as first effects of the defense program were felt.

The increase in dollar-volume of business will not fully reflect the huge amount of goods to be sold, he said, because prices average 12.5 per cent lower for Christmas items than in 1929. He estimated that the total amount of merchandise to be sold will be almost 20 per cent more than in 1929.

While volume of business will be up, the price of goods will be down, he said, because prices average 12.5 per cent lower for Christmas items than in 1929. He estimated that the total amount of merchandise to be sold will be almost 20 per cent more than in 1929.

Representatives of railways and their workers, meeting with President Roosevelt and other government executives in another effort to avert a strike, failed to reach an agreement today but agreed to continue negotiations.

The entire group arranged to return to the White House in the afternoon.

While unwilling to admit that any definite formula for an adjustment of their wage controversy had been laid before the management and labor spokesmen, Senator Mead (D., N. Y.) indicated that some sort of proposals looking toward an adjustment had been considered and said that the situation still looked hopeful.

While the railroad conferences were taking place, the House labor committee instructed Rep. Ramspeck (D., Ga.), one of its members who attended an extraordinary White House conference last night, to draft new legislation by Friday based on the President's suggestions for cooling off periods and compulsory arbitration.

A Senate committee was told the navy approved of legislation to let the government take over defense plants held up by labor disputes.

The spread of a jurisdictional strike of more than 8,500 American Federation of Labor Machineists in the St. Louis area closed down the McDonnell Aircraft Corporation toll road, which has $4,500,000 in defense orders, and curtailed operations at the Curtiss-Wright plant, which has $100,000,000 in defense contracts. A union spokesman said 400 industries were affected.

For an hour and a half, the representatives of the carriers and the railway unions conferred with Mr. Roosevelt, Mead, and interested government officials. Then, at the chief executive's suggestion, the management and union delegations retired to the cabinet room. There, Mead said, they were "considering a matter that developed as a result of our hearings."

"What decision they might make, what direction it will take, I can't tell you," the senator remarked to reporters. "The President asked the two groups to go out by themselves and go over what was said."

He said there was not really a definite proposal for a compromise of the group, since there had been principally a recapitulation of suggestions previously made and a "general exploration of all phases of the controversy."

Berlin Reports British Attempt Landing on French Coast Sunday Night

Move Is Praised

U. S. Action in Surinam Wins Praise of Some Senators

(By the Associated Press)

Masses of British and Axis tanks swirled in chaotic battle over the sands of north Africa today, Russia's Red armies fought to stem a German onslaught within 50 miles of Moscow, and Berlin tersely reported a British attempt to land troops Sunday night on the coast of France.

British front-line dispatches, claiming victory over the Germans in at least one sector of the Regezh battle zone, 10 miles south of Tobruk, said the Nazis were gradually being cut off from their supplies by imperial columns driving westward along the Mediterranean coast.

Cairo reports said that the great three-day tank battle at Regezh had begun to die down, as a result of heavy losses on both sides, but that British infantry reinforcements were pouring into the fighting from their bases east and south.

As pictured by the British, German Gen. Erwin Rommel's tank forces were badly crippled and there was no indication of fresh German troops being sent into action.

The dispatch of a protective force of United States troops to Dutch Guiana won much commendation in the Senate today, and the general disposition was to link the move with the critical status of Franco-American relations.

Threat Is Forestalled

Several Senators, speaking of the Dutch colony's rich Bauxite mines, said that President Roosevelt obviously intended to forestall any threat to this vital supply source which furnishes more than 60 per cent of the Bauxite ore required by this country's rapidly expanding aluminum industry.

Although none claimed to have confidential information, some well-informed legislators thought that Mr. Roosevelt may have acted from concern lest Germany occupy Dakar, France's strategic base on the western hump of Africa, and then try later to move into French Guiana, which borders the Dutch colony in the northeast coast of South America.

Senator Hill (D., Ala.), the majority whip, expressed the opinion that the President sent armed forces to Dutch Guiana "because we know that there is a projected conference between Hitler and Petain regarding the French colonial possessions, which include French Guiana."

Diplomatic quarters have received a number of reports of Nazi activity in French Guiana, and it is known that citizens of the Dutch colony have been uneasy about conditions in the French penal colony ever since the fall of France. The cessation of French food shipments has worsened the plight of some 10,000 convicts there, and many of the regular guards have deserted.

An easily forded river separates the two colonies, and until the recent arrival of Dutch reinforcements from England, only a few hundred men could be mustered in Dutch Guiana's defense.

Apparently neither the French colonial authorities nor the Vichy government were consulted regarding the United States decision to support the recent Dutch reinforcements with American troops, but the step had the approval of both The Netherlands government and of Brazil, which adjoins both the Dutch and French colonies.

On the Ukraine front, Soviet dispatches reported that a power-

Air Line Now Is Traveling Along African Coast to Avoid British

Vichy, Unoccupied France, Nov. 25 (AP)—Dakar, Senegal capital, is linked with main French African ports southward along the Atlantic coast by a new passenger and freight air service stopping at Conakry, Abidjan, Cotonou, Inalaye and Niamey, it was announced today.

Most of the route is over the sea to avoid crossing British colonies which alternate with French. The line will use Sikorsky S-43 amphibian planes.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Broadcast
Pittsburgh — A gas explosion which wrecked a gasoline station here and injured nine persons was heard in Canada.

Richard B. Tucker, a glass company executive, was talking on the telephone with W. H. Phillips in Oshawa, Ontario, when the blast let loose.

"What was that?" Phillips broke in.

Tucker didn't know until he looked down from his office on the 22nd floor of the Grant building and saw the demolished station.

Supper Money

Richmond, Va. — A young band entered A. B. Cook's filling station and dropped a nickel in the pay phone. "I'll be home to supper in a few minutes," he said.

Then he drew a pistol on Cook, took $300 and left—in good time to get home to supper.

Easy Picking

Indianapolis — Walter S. (Scotty) Teal, captain of night watchmen at the Real Silk Hosiery Mills, was walking to work down a busy street when he saw a red fox trotting toward him.

He just stooped down, reached out with his bare hands and caught it. He gave it to a passing truck driver.

Futures Strong

Niland, Calif. — This farm town's slogan—"you can grow anything in this area"—implied the broadest permission to Frank Montana.

So he put in three acres of garlic.

Citizens are eyeing the crop warily to see that it doesn't over-ripen.

Only There?

Seattle — Elmer Carlberg chose his examination for jury service as the inopportune time to expound his theories on man's veracity. "All men are liars," said Carlberg, "in court."

He was excused promptly by the lawyers for both sides.

Ah, Yes!

Salt Lake City — The simple question: "Weren't you young once, judge?" won a suspended sentence for M. Rasmussen.

Rasmussen explained to Judge Frank E. Moss he was saying good night to his girl when a cop left a ticket for parking two hours in a 30 minute zone.

Surprise!

Boise, Idaho — "Okay . . . fire, you say . . . two—oh—eight North Eighteenth," repeated Walt Johnson, mechanically. The fire department was giving out the information.

Then the reporter jumped out of his chair and grabbed his hat. It was his own house.

Take and Give

Chicago — Two gunmen who held up a south side tavern were a jovial and entertaining couple and lavished with other people's money and liquor.

They robbed the bartender and four guests of $51.55 and then ordered the bartender to put in their automobile a quantity of beer, whiskey and wine.

Before leaving, one of the gunmen entertained with a dance; the second served drinks to everyone. Then they handed $1 to all of the customers except one—they only stole 55 cents from him.

CREEK LOCKS

Creek Locks, Nov. 24—The Misses Margie Coutant, Gloria DeCarlo, Dot Williams and Tom Salino, Jack Kelly and Kenneth Hurley, all of Jersey City, spent Thanksgiving week-end with their cousin, Mrs. Nellie Coutant and while here visited New Paltz and enjoyed horse back riding.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond LeFever spent Thanksgiving Day with Mrs. LeFever's parents, at Walton.

Mrs. Anderson and son and daughter, of Brooklyn, spent the week-end at their home here.

Mrs. Kenneth Bordenstine entertained some friends at her home Friday evening. Those present were: Mrs. Margaret Coutant and daughter, Margie, of Jersey City, Mrs. Fred Bordenstine, Mrs. Elizabeth Hussman, Mrs. Ora Sager, Mrs. Margaret Coffey, Miss Nell Regan, and Miss Nellie Coutant.

Refreshments were served and all spent a pleasant evening.

Moses Wallace of Poughkeepsie, visited his home during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Muller of New York spent Thanksgiving Day at their home here.

Ira Ebberts of New York has been enjoying a week's vacation with his mother and father, at their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stein of College Point spent the week-end at their cottage here.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Von Ahnen and daughters, Joan and Nancy, of New York, has returned home after spending a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lukas.

Charles McLaren of Brooklyn spent the week-end with his family here.

Martin Brophy and son, Martin, Jr., of Schenectady, spent Sunday with his sisters, Teresa and Stella Brophy.

Master John Maschino, who has been ill, is out and around.

Mrs. Anna Hawley, who is employed in New York spent the week-end at her home.

Albany, Nov. 25 — Less than six per cent of the school children of New York state are suffering from malnutrition, a study completed today by the Division of Health and Physical Education of the State Department of Education revealed. This is in sharp contrast to the nation-wide average of more than 33 per cent of both adults and school children who are improperly nourished, the report pointed out.

Consumers Should Know— (2) The Benefits of Free Competition

(Copyright 1941, Advertising Federation of America)

This is the second of a series of six articles prepared by the Bureau of Research and Education of the Advertising Federation of America, in response to the increasing interest of consumers in questions affecting advertising and business.

In this country we have what is known as a free competitive economy. This means that you or any other individual may choose to produce goods if you wish, and you are free to sell them at any price you think others may be willing to pay for them. Only you must not cheat and you must not form a monopoly.

We don't like monopolies in America. Many years ago, we passed laws prohibiting any commercial combinations which destroy competition. The interests of consumers would inevitably suffer if monopolies were permitted to control production and prices.

Not all countries have free competitive economies now. In some lands there is almost no freedom of competition. Americans think such a condition intolerable, for we believe that liberty would disappear if each of us did not have the right to engage in any kind of competitive enterprise he might choose. We abhor the thought of having a dictator suppress our personal initiative.

Competition is a harder task master than a dictator, but under it we are free to make our own decisions and we work for much better rewards than any dictator has to offer. Individually, every one of us accomplishes more when he has to compete with others. It is the combination of individual competitive efforts which brings about social improvement and progress.

Fundamentally, the urge to compete is one of the most natural of human traits. We want to get ahead simply because we were made that way. Records made on the athletic field, at the bridge table, and in Sunday School attendance are all higher because of competition. Similarly the desire to excel has sharpened the skill of craftsmen, raised the level of professional attainments, and inspired the achievements of industry.

Competition is the natural way of life, the way of human progress. When there is lively competition, each manufacturer and dealer strives continually and earnestly to provide better goods, lower prices, and better service to the consumer. The result is that we all get better things and more of them. Regardless of other complicating problems, we can never get away from the eternal fact that competition and personal incentive together form the most powerful of all forces working for material progress.

In modern business, competition comes to a head in the selling of merchandise. With the development of advertising, merchants and manufacturers have come to use this method for displaying their wares to the public. The efforts to make better products and to sell them more cheaply have their final expression in advertising.

The very desire to have a good article to advertise has often been responsible for improvement in a product.

It is truly said that advertising is the life and the symbol of competition in business. Firms which compete honestly also advertise honestly. Fair competition is the only condition under which industry can continue its progress. In anything that may be done to regulate business practices, there must be no restraint upon constructive competition.

History shows us some cases where competition was abolished through the establishment of monopolies. In a very few special types of industry this may be desirable, but in most other cases this has been bad for the public. When the incentive for improvement is removed, there can be no further progress. Control of production and prices is almost always disastrous, for this means the stoppage of competition.

Sometimes we find business men who would like to have restraints placed upon competition. They have so many troubles trying to keep their enterprises going, meeting payrolls and fighting competition, that they are tired of the effort. They find the hard way to be too hard and they think it would be better if conditions were made a little easier by cutting down or controlling the competition.

Perhaps we shouldn't blame them too much, especially those who might have to go out of business unless something is done to lighten their burden. It is always bad to have a few bankruptcies and abandoned enterprises. But it is worse to interfere with the vital forces that make business go, and to change the rules so that there will be no further progress. By eliminating competition we might save temporarily a few crippled business enterprises, but the general public would eventually have to pay for it in higher prices or poorer goods, or both.

Almost every proposal to reduce competition is short-sighted. Brought forth to solve a pressing difficulty of the moment, it does harm in the long run—harm to consumers and harm to business as a whole. Nevertheless, devices for this purpose are constantly being proposed and some of them are in actual operation now, at the present moment.

One large group of such measures for cutting down a certain kind of competition is the surprising collection of state laws setting up barriers against interstate trade. Many of our citizens probably do not even know that this sort of thing exists. It is an amazing thing that in this great country which is supposed to be a single economic unit with goods moving freely from points in Maine to California and from Florida to the State of Washington, more than half the states have passed laws restricting, in one way or another, the competition of outside businesses with firms located within the state.

While it is unconstitutional for states to set up actual tariff barriers, some of them have done almost the same thing in the guise of measures supposed to protect health, public safety, or natural resources, and through ingenious use of taxing powers. In addition the purchasing departments of some states are required by law to buy from firms within the state wherever possible, even if their prices are higher than quotations from outside concerns.

Many states have inspection laws and labeling laws which make it next to impossible for certain products from outside their boundaries to compete with those produced inside the state. Another device for reducing out-of-state competition is the assessment of prohibitive fees and licenses on trucks coming into the state.

Fortunately, this matter of interstate trade barriers is now being studied by representatives of the federal and state governments, and it is to be hoped that remedies will be undertaken. It is a most promising sign that various state authorities are themselves beginning to see that something must be done to remove these barriers.

Another set of laws aimed at destroying a particular form of competition is the series of chain-store tax measures. The numerous state taxes on chains, and especially the proposals for a federal law of this type, are designed to hamper and even to eliminate this particular kind of store, solely because other stores want less competition. Chain stores have forced others to be more efficient, to make their own stores more attractive, and to sell on a smaller margin; and with these improvements, wide-awake independent merchants have been able to compete very successfully. However, many of them prefer to have the chain-store competition eliminated through punitive taxes.

Then there are a great many state laws called "fair trade acts," some of which are not fair at all. Parts of these laws are constructive in intent, but the general effect of most of them is to lessen the free competition of manufacturers and merchants and to relieve them somewhat from the stern struggle for better goods, lower prices, and more efficient distribution.

From time to time, there have been attempts at price-fixing. This is one of the worst forms of competition-killing. It is almost always unsuccessful in the long run and much damage is done where it lasts.

There has been much discussion about the various kinds and degrees of price-fixing and some of the arguments given by proponents of these measures sound very plausible indeed. But invariably the central idea is to reduce competition in order that it is basically unsound because it violates the fundamental principle that competition must be free. In the end, nothing but harm can come from big or little price-fixing devices, regardless of apparent temporary benefits.

Competition is a hard task master. There is no denying that. Yet it is a blessing. In everything worth while has come through competitive effort. Now and then we hear criticism of the waste caused by competition in business. We must admit that there is some waste effort when many firms in the same line of business all try to sell us their products. It is in selling and advertising that competition finds vocal expression and that is where we are impressed by the great amount of competition that exists.

While we hear some complaints that there is too much competition in selling, we seldom find any one protesting against the competitive efforts going on all the time in laboratories and engineering departments, where manufacturers spend huge sums of money in the constant effort to develop something better, something new, so that more customers will buy. Nor do we hear complaints about money being spent for improved service, one of the most expensive forms of competition.

Probably the greatest item of cost to be charged against competition is to be counted in the graveyard of business failures. The pressure of competition forces a tremendous number of firms out of the race, and these failures represent a considerable money loss. But we do not hear much complaint about this serious waste being caused by business competition.

The total cost of competition is very large indeed. Yet it is worth many times its cost. Free competition gives vitality to the business system, and there is no doubt that it increases national production much more than enough to offset any incidental waste due to competitive effort.

Selling and advertising represent only one aspect of competition but this is the most important aspect, for it is through selling and advertising that other competitive efforts are made effective. Advertising especially is indispensable in bringing the benefits of competition to all of us as consumers.

Freedom of competition is as essential to the American way of life as the democratic form of government.

Level Down

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A letter-to-the-editor made this unusual request: "Will you please ask to send someone out to level the high spots between the holes on Whitney avenue? The reason I suggest this is because there are so many holes that it will be easier to level the street down than try to build it up."

STANDS BY FOR EMERGENCY—Mass shelter and feeding are traditional American Red Cross responsibilities in time of disaster. Its plans are being adapted for use in civilian defense in event of a national emergency.

Three Are First To Buy Christmas Seals in County

The first purchaser of 1941 Christmas Seals, on the opening day of the Sale in this city, was announced today by Joseph M. Fowler, president of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association. This honor went to: Dr. Leonard A. McCambridge.

The second purchaser was Orla M. Scott and the honor for the third place goes to John F. Finn and Dr. Clarence L. Gannon.

"Each year we get a fresh burst of enthusiasm from the early and many steady purchasers and we are extremely grateful to them," Mr. Fowler said.

"We urge others who have bought and paid for seals to get them into the mails quickly so that our message—protect all homes from Tuberculosis—may be spread quickly from town to town."

Ulster County Nursing Service Gives Its First Annual Report to Board

Covers several fields of nursing such as school nursing, tuberculosis, acute communicable disease, maternity, venereal disease, non-communicable disease and health supervision. During the period since the program was introduced 5,784 visits to patients were made.

These visits were classified as follows: Bedside 893, to or behalf of patients 4,891, infant 730, pre-school 1,397, school 1,140, adult 2,047, health supervision 2,326, ante-partum 383, home delivery 5, post-partum 229, tuberculosis (contacts or suspects) 834, syphilis (diag.) 52, syphilis (contacts) 48, communicable disease (diag.) 323, communicable disease (other) 305, non-communicable disease 501. Aside from the above visits 475 ineffective visits were made where patients were not at home or cannot be found.

Nurses also had charge or assisted in clinics for immunization for diphtheria and smallpox, infant and pre-school clinics, orthopedic, ante-partum, syphilis and tuberculosis clinics. These clinics numbered 137, and the attendance at these clinics was 2,458. Rural school visits 310. Care and advice was given to numerous mothers throughout the year.

Financial Report

The financial report showed a $12,000 appropriation by the board during the first year of the service and $782.61 received from the state as reimbursements for the months of April, May and June, making a total of $12,782.61 available. Of this amount $2,866.58 was spent for salaries, $617.52 for travel expenses, $227.86 for equipment and supplies and $9.34 for telephone and stationery. The total expenditures were $3,721.30. Balance on hand November 1, 1941, was $9,061.31.

The committee recommended as the 1942 budget the following:

Salaries	$ 8,000
Travel	3,000
Equipment, supplies	280
Postage, telephone	120
Contingent	100
Total	$11,500

The committee on public health nurse committee of Ulster county, Jay W. Rifenburg and George E. Smith, recommended that there be assessed and levied on the county the sum of $6,000 for nurse fund.

The committee on town and county accounts reported $2,935.47 in unpaid sewer assessments in the Highland sewer district in the town of Lloyd and recommended that there be assessed against the properties in the district the sum of $2,994.35 which includes the amount due plus the added 2 per cent interest. Filed.

A report of the committee on Tuberculosis Hospital and public health reported claims amounting to $524.27 and that amount allowed. A motion was made that this sum be raised.

Claims amounting to $412.97 were reported by the committee on county treasurer and sealer and that amount was allowed and the sum was moved assessed against the property of the county.

The committee on county purchasing agent and county auditor reported claims in the sum of $7.28 and moved that this amount be raised on the county.

The report of the committee on distribution of grand jurors was received. This allotment is based on the 1940 census and under the law the county is allowed 300 grand jurors. All supervisors were asked to get their names in immediately so the report may be filed on Wednesday with the county clerk. Due to the lateness of getting the 1940 census report Clerk Simpson said the time was short. The distribution is as follows: Denning 1, Esopus 15,

Gardiner 5, Hardenbergh 1, Hurley 5, Kingston Town 1, Gardiner 13, Marlborough 9, Marlborough 13, New Paltz 10, Olive 5, Plattekill 7, Rochester 8, Rosendale 9, Saugerties 31, Shawangunk 11, Shandaken 7, Ulster 14, Wawarsing 31, Woodstock 7, First Ward 5, Second Ward 14, Third Ward 11, Fourth Ward 9, Fifth Ward 6, Sixth Ward 6, Seventh Ward 6, Eighth Ward 4, Ninth Ward 5, Tenth Ward 8, Eleventh Ward 8, Twelfth Ward 13, Thirteenth Ward 2.

The committee on highways accounts reported claims of $4,370.21 but because of an error in addition allowed $4,371.53. Moved that this sum be assessed. Claims in the sum of $454.76 were reported by the committee on printing as its second report and it was moved that this amount be raised on the county.

County Clerk Robert A. Snyder requested $300 for repairs and supplementing maps in the office which have become worn through use. Referred to the committee on county clerk and surrogate.

A request for the usual $2,500 appropriation was received from the Veterans Memorial Hospital at Ellenville from William L. Douglas, president, and referred to the committee on appropriations.

Hurley Rate Is Cut

The report on equalization table was received. The report gives the same equalized rates as last year except in the town of Hurley, where the rate was cut this year from 65 per cent to 62 per cent. Supervisor Cashdollar moved for adoption of the report and his motion went over under the rule. The rates are:

Denning 44, Esopus 38, Gardiner 52, Hardenbergh 57, Hurley 62, Kingston Town 52, Kingston City 73, Lloyd 53, Marlborough 61, Marlborough 33, New Paltz 42, Olive 75, Plattekill 31, Rochester 46, Rosendale 39, Saugerties 53, Shandaken 60, Shawangunk 75, Ulster 37, Wawarsing 47, Woodstock 47.

The report of S. F. Ten Eyck, county sealer of weights and measures was received. He reported many examinations of scales and measuring containers and found conditions generally good. The situation as to coal scales and gasoline pumps, he reported as "good."

A report was also received from the county service officer for the fiscal year during which a total of 361 cases were handled. He reported a total of $7,934.50 brought into the county as veteran bonuses, hospitalization, burial allowances and for other compensation. Sixteen veterans were given steady employment through the office and seven temporary employment. The financial report showed a balance of $300 on hand out of a total of $2,000 available for use during the year. The report was filed.

Supervisor Grimm of New Paltz moved that there be raised on the town of New Paltz the sum of $2,200 for public welfare and $871.25 to pay certificate issued for snow removal.

Resolutions were also offered calling for appropriations for various highway needs including $50,000 for snow removal, $75,000 for the bridge fund, $100,000 for the county road fund which is to be matched by state money and $60,000 for the rights of way committee. All resolutions went over under the rule.

Clerk Simpson read a correction in the town road money fund as reported at the last session. In Item 2 for the town of Gardiner the amount first read was $5,000. It actually is $500. The town road funds as requested were authorized with this correction.

The board then adjourned until Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock when the equalization rate table will come up for adoption.

Eight Towns Isolated

Helena, Mont., Nov. 25 (AP)—A violent wind and snowstorm whipped through central and northwestern Montana last night isolating eight towns and stalling 400 automobiles between Great Falls and Belt. One death was attributed to the wind storm, which had an average velocity of nearly 50 miles an hour and gusts up to 80 miles. Rotary snow plows freed the stalled motorists. None suffered ill effects.

FACTS —all flavors!

Did you ever hear two eyewitnesses argue about a ball game they've both seen... DIFFERENTLY?

Your newspaper nearly always gets its facts right. It tells you who played, where they played, who won, what the score was. Newspaper men are TRAINED to get facts straight. But, being human, they're not infallible. When the "home-town" paper reports the game—win or lose—it reports it with a little home-town flavor, of course. But it DOESN'T CONCEAL THE FACTS.

Now everybody with any brains at all has OPINIONS. Editors, preachers, storekeepers and ditch-diggers "take sides." Sometimes they agree, sometimes they disagree. In America we give every man the right to his own OPINIONS and the right to speak his mind about them.

educate, inform and influence others by peaceful means. We let any man propose his own brand of religion, his own brand of politics, his own views about laws or behavior. We let competing merchants buy advertising space to state their offers and give their opinions about the wares each believes you should buy from HIM. We let the Red Cross or the U.S.O. solicit support for its work—or let any other organization or cause voice its plea.

Your newspaper—the one you are reading now—is a composite of many flavors. It tries to tell you the facts accurately—and usually succeeds. It tries to tell you what "both sides" of an argument are.

Its news and editorial columns are the PAPER'S honest view of what HAPPENED today and yesterday and what it believes MAY HAPPEN tomorrow. It opens its advertising columns to all reputable manufacturers or merchants or politicians... each to tell HIS opinion of what he wishes to sell.

Fact... opinion. Freedom to print facts and express opinions along with them. That is the very essence of democracy. Without that freedom—and without citizens CAPABLE of acting in the light of free fact and opinion—there is no democracy!

We even go further, over here. We give every man the right to "AGITATE" for his side—to preach,

Read, each Tuesday in this space, the messages about your liberty and how America's newspapers help you defend it. Your letters of comment will be appreciated by the editor and by this committee—Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

"There's no way like the American way—
Why?
"Because:
I can go to any church I please—I can read, see and hear what I choose—
I can express my opinions openly—My mail reaches me as it was sent—
My telephone is untapped—
I can join any political party I wish—
I can vote for what and for whom I please—
I have a constitutional right to trial by jury—
I am protected against unlawful search and seizure—
Neither my life nor my property can be forfeited without due process of law—
"So there we are! The proposition is squarely up to you, and you, and me! The future of America and of the world will be decided—not by waving of flags, the music of brass bands or platform oratory—but by the fusion of our individual loyalties into one tremendous group loyal to those American privileges and responsibilities which were bought, and paid for with the "blood and sweat and sorrow" of our forebears."

Jimmy—So Alma told you I was witty, did she?
Tubby—Well, she didn't express it that way. She said she had to laugh every time you opened your mouth.

For the Dead Letter Office
Dear Buddy, I am writing to you though I know you won't get my letter;
I hear that you have left this world
For the one—I hope—labeled "better."

We had lots of fun in this bloomin' old world,
While we were pals together;
And I truly hope you're enjoyin' yourself—
For you never liked hot weather!

Before they were married he whispered to her, "Were I drownin'— —going down for the third time—you would be the last person I'd think of."
It made her feel happy.
After they had been married several years he made the same speech.

It didn't seem to have the same meaning. Besides, she didn't like the way he said it.
So she hit him with a plate.

Chuzz—So you got rid of the depression in your town, did you?
Bones, Yes, but it took more than 100 loads of dirt to level it up.

GROWTH: Everyone of our days should be us growing in experience, gaining in knowledge, improving ourselves and our work. Every day lost without growth and improvement is a day wasted, a day in which we haven't stored away anything for the years to come.

Wife (after dispute)—Are all men fools?
Hubby—No, dear, some men are bachelors.

One of our prominent men, in an interview a while ago, was asked to give his definition of an expert. His answer was succinct and definite: "an expert is one who can complicate simplicity."

Sergeant—What's the idea—only two prunes?
Ordery—You save the stones twice a week until you get a thousand, and then you know the war has lasted five years all but ten weeks.

Prejudice is a great time-saver; it enables one to form opinions without bothering to get the facts.

THE PHONE BOOTH MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

YESTERDAY: Asey Mayo, the Cape Cod detective, was only delivering claims when he ventured into the Whale Inn. He found it deserted, lighted with candles because a storm had put out the lights, and what is more important, he found a corpse sitting on a chair in the phone booth. And now, just after verifying the fact that the corpse is still in the booth, he is accosted by the very self-possessed daughter of the proprietor.

Chapter Six

Through The Keyhole

ASEY chuckled. "I must," he said, "look pretty much of a tramp."

The girl didn't deny it.

"But," Asey continued, "my appearance is deceiving. I've done some trampin' this evenin', only I ain't one. Miss Doane, how long have you been in this room?"

"Since three this afternoon," the girl said tranquilly. "And now, I'm sure you're in a hurry to get to the Commercial—"

"You mean," Asey said, "you been in this room since three this afternoon? All the time?"

"Yes," the girl said firmly.

"And if you'll be good enough to come to the door," the girl continued, "I'll point out the direction of the Commercial House."

Asey leaned back his head and opened his mouth wide.

"Jennie! Ahoy, Jen-nie!"

The girl jumped as his quarter-deck bellow roared out.

"Jennie! Asey took another breath. "Jen-nie!"

"Look here," the girl said sharply. "you've got to stop that din! I can assure you that there is no one named Jennie here!"

"Asey! Asey!"

"Who's that?" the girl demanded.

"That," Asey said, "is Jennie. Ahoy, Jennie, where are you?"

"Upstairs! Come up here, Asey! I got her, right here!"

The girl ducked down, opened the low-swinging cupboard doors, squeezed herself through them, and ran over to the staircase in front of Asey.

"Absolutely, you can't go up—"

"Aside, youngster," Asey said, and took the stairs three at a time.

He found Jennie on her knees with her eyes focused on the keyhole of a room down the corridor to his right.

"What's goin' on, Jennie? What're you glued to that keyhole for? Who's in there?"

Jennie put her finger to her lips. "Shhh!" she said. "She's in this bedroom! Right in here! Shhh!"

"What's the use of shushin'?" Asey wanted to know. "Between your yells an' mine, I guess somebody knows we're in this general vicinity! Jennie, who's in there? What you been doin'?"

"Look!" Jennie got to her feet and held out something she'd picked up from the floor beside her. "Look!"

Asey took the white-stitched leather pocketbook from her and glanced at the initials.

"O.E.B. This is the one from the phone booth?"

"Listen," Miss Doane had been desperately trying to get a word in edgewise. "Listen, will the two of you simply stop this and—"

"Oh," Asey said. "I forgot you. Go downstairs, will you, an' phoo!"

Hanson of the state police, an' Doc Cummings, the medical examiner, over in Wellfleet. Tell 'em Asey Mayo wants 'em at the Whale Inn right away. Hurry, will you? Now, Jennie, what'd you take this from the phone booth for?"

"I never did, Asey! I took it from her!" she pointed toward the door at whose keyhole she had been watching.

Miss Doane broke in before Asey had a chance to speak.

The Pocketbook

"YOU don't look like Asey Mayo!" she said. "I've seen innumerable pictures of him. He wears a yachting cap, and a duck coat with lots of little pockets, and he carries a gun. And besides, he's in Washington right this minute! I saw a picture of him in the paper this morning, shaking hands with people who make engines or something!"

"I'm back," Asey informed her, "an' these are my city clothes. Now, hustle with those calls, will you?"

"Well, all right," But she still looked skeptical as she turned and walked back along the hall to the stairs.

"Now, Jennie," Asey went on, "let me get this straightened out. What's the story on this pocketbook, anyway?"

"I tell you, I took it from the woman that's in the bedroom in there! I didn't take it from the phone booth woman!"

Asey sighed.

"Let's start at the beginnin'," he said patiently. "Somebody knocks over a bucket of clams, an' I rush out into the rain. What did you do then?"

"The minute you left," Jennie said, "I somehow began to feel awful scared an' trembly. All alone there with those candles flickerin', an' her in that booth! Why, for a minute or two, I just shook! An' then I shut the closet door, an' then I begun to feel a little better. An' then—in she come!"

"Who?" Asey demanded. "This Doane girl that was just here?"

"No, no! The woman at the red lights! The one with the umbrella! The one—"

"Look, Jennie," Asey said soothingly. "I don't blame you for bein' confused. I tell you what I'll do. I'll phone Sam over at the garage an' have him drive my roadster here an' take you home. You need to lie down. You had a hard day even before you got to this place, an' what's happened since hasn't made it any easier. I'm not a bit surprised you seen a ghost! Come on downstairs, an' I'll call Sam."

It was not until he took hold of Jennie's arm that Asey realized his error. The sudden gleam in Jennie's eyes was not gratitude for his consideration, but sheer, unadulterated anger.

"You think I'm a fool, Asey Mayo? You think I don't know what I see? You think I don't know what I'm talkin' about? I tell you, it was that woman, an' it wasn't no ghost!"

"You mean," she recognized you, an' spoke to you?" Asey asked.

Jennie shook her head.

"She walked straight past me, Asey! Never said a word. I don't think she knew I was there! Straight past me, an' across that livin' room, an' up the stairs!"

"What did you do?" Asey demanded. "Did you speak to her, or put out your hand an' touch her? What did you say?"

"I was so flabbergasted," Jennie said, "I didn't do a thing but gape, an' I think my eyes nearly popped out of my head. Asey, they ain't felt right since. Why there one minute I'd closed the door of that booth, an' the next minute there she was, comin' in the front door an' walkin' past me! I thought it was a ghost, first. But that woman was just as real as could be."

"Honest, Jennie, d'you?"

"I kept thinkin' of things to say," Jennie went on. "Only they all stuck in my throat. She was halfway up the stairs before I could unloosen my tongue an' find my voice. Then I let out a scream. A good loud scream. It even scared me! Scared her, too. She went up the rest of the stairs like a streak of greased lightning. Then I come to an' rushed up the stairs after her. An' right on the stairs was that pocketbook, I guess that proves she was real, does it? Ghosts don't carry pocketbooks!"

"An' She Dripped!"

Asey restrained himself from remarking that ghosts had been known to carry far stranger objects than ladies' handbags.

"But," he said, "this you didn't actually take this bag from her, did you, Jennie? You just found it on the stairs."

"Same thing!" Jennie retorted. "She dropped it when I let out that scream! Don't you look so doubtful, Asey! I had on that felt hat an' that tweed coat. I tell you, it was her!"

Asey frowned, and played with the clasp on the pocketbook.

"An' you saw her go into this room?" he asked, as he casually opened the pocketbook and peered inside. "Where is she now?"

"Oh, I didn't see her go in, because she reached the top of the stairs before I even got started," Jennie said. "But I know she's in this room. This is the way she ran. An' I been in every room on this floor that's unlocked, an' I listened outside every room that's locked, an' this is where she is. I heard a rustlin' sound, twice."

"There's nothin' in this pocketbook," Asey said. "It's empty. Tell me, just where did you find it?"

"On the curve of the stairs, to one side, just where she dropped it when I yelled," Jennie told him. "An' I wish you'd stop askin' a lot of fool questions an' either tell her to come out, or break that door in. I knocked an' banged, but she didn't pay a speck of attention!"

Asey reached out and rapped his knuckles against the door.

"A self-respectin' flea," Jennie said with scorn, "wouldn't hear that knockin'. An' if it did, it wouldn't pay any attention to it! Tell her to come out here!"

"Will the occupant of Room Five," Asey said, "be good enough to open the door?"

Nothing happened.

Asey repeated his request, and then he drew a long breath.

"Honest, Jennie, don't you think that maybe perhaps it was just possibly an imaginary woman, sort of a picture in your mind?"

"I do not!" She dropped that pocketbook!

Maybe. But someone might've been givin' out in a hurry, an' ed things from one pocketbook to another—I've known you to do that, Jennie—an' left the empty bag on the stairs."

"I tell you, she dropped it! An' she dripped!"

"She was?"

"Let me tell you what I think," Asey said, "an' don't interrupt me till I get through. I think it was perfectly natural, after your closin' the door of that phone closet, to look up an' think you seen that woman's image. Most likely you did."

Jennie's lips pursed themselves into a thin, stubborn line.

British Say Nazis' Supply Lines Cut

ful Russian counter-offensive west of Rostov-on-Don had hurled the Germans back 62 miles and that the invaders were rushing new troops to the threatened area.

Nazi losses were described as "enormous" with the 16th German Tank Division "almost completely smashed."

The German high command on Saturday had claimed the capture of Rostov, northern gateway to the Caucasus oil fields, but the Russians reported on Sunday that fierce tank and machine-gun battles were still raging in the city's streets.

Today's dispatches indicated that the Russians were making now a furious attempt to recapture Rostov after breasting the initial German drive beyond the strategic Don river port.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's headquarters gave this brief account of the purported British thrust across the English channel:

"The British attempted to effect a landing on the French channel coast with some boats. They were repulsed by the German coastal defenses with heavy losses."

Patrol Lands in France

In London, the ministry of information said that a "small British patrol" landed on the Normandy coast, in German-occupied France, Sunday night and that the lone casualty was a man struck in the arm by a machine-gun bullet.

"The enemy is betraying anxiety about our intentions with regard to the coast of the occupied territory and hopes by making exaggerated claims to elicit information which will be withheld from him," the ministry said.

The patrol, it added, returned "complete."

In view of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's statement that Britain will not be ready to attempt an invasion of the continent until 1942, the thrust presumably was another in a series of small-scale raids for sabotage purposes.

On the Libyan desert front, authoritative London quarters described the action in Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham's eight-day-old offensive as "very confused" and said "very hard" fighting continued.

From the Axis capitals, Berlin and Rome, came synchronized reports of British reverses. A German military quarters asserted Britain's desert tank-roller was "jammed" and that Axis leadership had taken the initiative.

In Rome, Premier Mussolini's high command reported that Italian and German columns had wiped out two British armored brigades in two days and declared the Axis was liquidating a large part of imperial armored forces caught in pockets.

Claims Are Denied

The Italians also denied British claims to the capture of Bardia, 10 miles west of the Egyptian frontier, and the high command asserted that "nothing has been changed in the investment of Tobruk fortress," 90 miles west of the border.

New sallies from the town were declared to have been repulsed. Cairo dispatches said the Tobruk garrison, under siege since last April 11, had slashed through Axis lines to a point within four miles of main British columns advancing from the south and east, and had captured over 2,000 prisoners, half of them Germans.

Admitting bloody losses on both sides, the Fascist high command reported:

"In the Bir El Gobi zone, at the end of the encircling maneuver begun on November 23, the Ariete Division and German armored divisions annihilated the 22nd British Armored Brigade.

"Further prisoners were captured and the ground was strewn with immobilized and burned British tanks, which are being mopped up."

British Middle East headquarters, virtually noncommittal on progress in the vast battle of Africa.

Provision Is Restored

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—The House banking committee bowed again to administration wishes today and voted, 14 to 8, to restore to its price-control bill authority for the government to buy, sell or store any commodity if necessary to maintain price stability.

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.), senior minority member of the committee, denounced the provision as "pernicious" and declared it would permit the price administration to "go into" the stock exchange and buy or sell stocks. He said he did not see how "any self-respecting member of Congress could vote for it."

Central Hudson Denies Any Sale

terests involving the sale of the company or its property. It is the hope and expectation of the management and board of directors that the present status of the Central Hudson Company as a locally controlled and operated public utility company may be continuously maintained.

"In common with all business and industries, the operations of the company are materially affected by the requirements and results of the national defense program."

"Priorities and allocations" advised by federal government have restricted the supply of construction materials to the extent that new business extensions must in the main be confined to national defense projects. The public utility industry has, however, been given priority on materials and supplies necessary for the maintenance, repair and replacement of its property, so that customers of the Central Hudson may be assured of continuity and adequacy of service.

"The restrictions and delays in connection with securing materials and supplies for new construction together with the seasonal character of the work, however, have made necessary the disbanding of the company's temporary construction forces and will result in some curtailment of the volume of such work. From present indications it appears that materials and supplies can be obtained in sufficient quantities to adequately maintain the company's facilities and the volume of the work so provided and justify the maintenance of the regular working forces of the company."

"In view of the continued increases in taxes, labor and material costs, the management of the company has reviewed all phases of its operation to the end that any activities unnecessary to present conditions may be eliminated. In this connection the assignment of certain employees have been received and some personnel has been eliminated. In all such cases liberal separation allowances have been made. It is the intention of the company to continuously maintain a sound and efficient operating unit for the service of the Central Hudson Valley."

Half-Way Mark Reached

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—Military aircraft production has hit the half-way mark towards President Roosevelt's original goal of 50,000 planes a year, Aviation Magazine said today.

The Quartermaster Corps of the Fourth Corps Area, with headquarters in Atlanta, purchased 3,289,000 paper bags and 143,912 pounds of wax paper to wrap lunches for troops during the war games.

NO WONDER OWNERS OF lowest-priced cars in all parts of the country are again switching to Pontiac this year.

They've learned that Pontiac not only costs no more to own and operate, but also they're paying no more in the long run. They're simply investing a little more because they've found Pontiac owners get the few extra dollars they pay back again at trade-in time—thanks to Pontiac's great reputation for dependability and the tremendous demand for it as a used car.

Two Great Plants for Defense Work Only

Pontiac has two great plants—one in production, the other being rushed to completion—devoted solely to defense: building rapid-fire cannon for the U. S. Navy. Thousands of Pontiac skilled craftsmen are now at work turning out this cannon which naval authorities say is "the most effective weapon of its size ever produced."

The only changes that have been made in the 1942 Pontiac are improvements. For example, Pontiac's exclusive built-in oil cleaner. It's good for the life-time of the car—requires no new "cartridges" to keep oil clean and pure. In 1942 its efficiency has been increased from two to three times over that of last year's cleaner!

Mrs. Weeks' Hearing Adjourned to December 9

A hearing in the case of Mrs.

Laura Weeks of Sprucon, charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated, was adjourned today by Justice William C. Weyman at Phoenixia, to December 9, to await the outcome of the injuries to Frank Botelho, 49, a farmhand, who it is alleged was struck by her auto on November 18.

Botelho, who suffered a broken pelvis, a fractured bone in the spine and other injuries, is in the Kingston Hospital where his condition today was reported as apparently fair.

Trooper Dunn, who with Trooper Maish, investigated the accident, arrested Mrs. Weeks. According to the troopers, Botelho was walking back to the farm shortly after 5 o'clock when Mrs. Weeks was driving through Allabon, and when near Chick's garage it is alleged her car suddenly shot across the road and struck Botelho.

Today Mrs. Weeks furnished $100 bail for her appearance on December 9.

New York Briefs

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—The west side waterfront, at 11th avenue and 2nd street, was probably the most ragrant place in the United States today.

A 12-ton truck and trailer loaded with chocolate candy and perfume turned over, spilling its contents all over the intersection.

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—All the world maybe a stage but this was strictly an unconventional actor.

Theodor Mohler, 36, was arrested by Detectives John Kaiser and James Brady early today when they found him wrapped in the stage curtain of the Beverly Theatre on Third avenue.

A night watchman, noticing a shadow on the stage at a time when nobody should have been there, called the police.

Mohler was booked on a charge of robbery.

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—Confined to a mental institution for 26 years, and once charged with the slaying of his millionaire father, Chester Drye yesterday was granted control of his $100,000 estate.

Duryea, now 70, was released from a sanitarium last September. He voluntarily went to the institution after the murder indictment against him was dismissed for lack of evidence.

Originally, police found Duryea standing over the dead body of his father, General Hiram Duryea, mumbling "angels told me to do it."

To Hold Dance

The Cottick School Aid will hold a dance at the school house Friday, November 28. Refreshments will be on sale. Music for modern dancing will be by the Cottick Ginger-Snaps and music for old-fashioned dancing by Floyd Dietz. There will be a nominal charge.

Auto Salesman 'Horns In'

Madill, Okla. (AP)—The horn on Roy Godfrey's auto short-circuited and he had to get up at 4 a. m. to fix it. The more he thought about it, the more irritated he became and finally wound up in a garage. A few minutes later he had all fixed up—not with a new horn or a bit of repair work—but with a whole new car, which he drove away muttering: "Dog-doged if I want to be bothered with that sort of noise at that time of the morning again."

During the siege of Boston, the American army used the Harvard buildings as barracks and the college moved to Concord, returning to Cambridge June 21, 1776.

PORT EWEN

Benefit Card Party

Port Ewen, Nov. 25—The Port Ewen Community Knitting and Sewing Group will hold a benefit card party at Spinnys restaurant on Friday evening, December 5 at 8:15 o'clock. The proceeds will go for the Red Cross relief work done by the group, such as yarn for afghans and material for garments which are made at the monthly all-day sewing meetings. The group also plans to pack Christmas boxes for all the men from the village who are in service. Mrs. John G. Reynolds, general chairman of the card party, has announced the following chairmen of committees: Mrs. Herbert Christian, miscellaneous refreshments; Mrs. Adolph Munson, kitchen; Mrs. Reginald Van Leuven, tables; Mrs. Edward Maines, pillowcases; Miss Helen Schryver. Due to the recent federal tax on amusements, the usual admission charge will be slightly increased. The patronage of the public will be appreciated. Refreshments will be served.

P-T. A. Meeting

Port Ewen, Nov. 25—The Port Ewen Parent Teacher Association will meet tomorrow evening in School No. 13 at 8 o'clock. The topic is "Mental Stimulation Through Reading." The speaker will be Miss Sarah Townsend, librarian, who will have a display of children's books. The public is invited. The hostesses for the social hour will be Mrs. Paul Schwark, Mrs. Arthur Schleightner and Mrs. Percy Fairbrother.

Box Is Packed

Port Ewen, Nov. 25—The Missionary Society of the Reformed Church is packing a Christmas box for the Indian Mission at Winnebago, Neb. There is a special demand for good used shoes, rubbers and overshoes. As usual, good toys and articles of clothing are very acceptable. Articles may be left in the vestibule of the church or at the parsonage before Monday, December 1.

Village Notes

Port Ewen, Nov. 25—Mrs. Ralph Atkins has returned to her home following a week's treatment at the Kingston Hospital.

OLD FAVORITES AND NEW IDEAS FOR COOKING POULTRY IN LATEST BOOKLET

Would you like to serve a succulent Chicken Pie topped with delicately browned biscuits? Perhaps you have always wanted to turn out a batch of successful Chicken Turnovers; or the kind of Broiled Squabs that inspire sonnets.

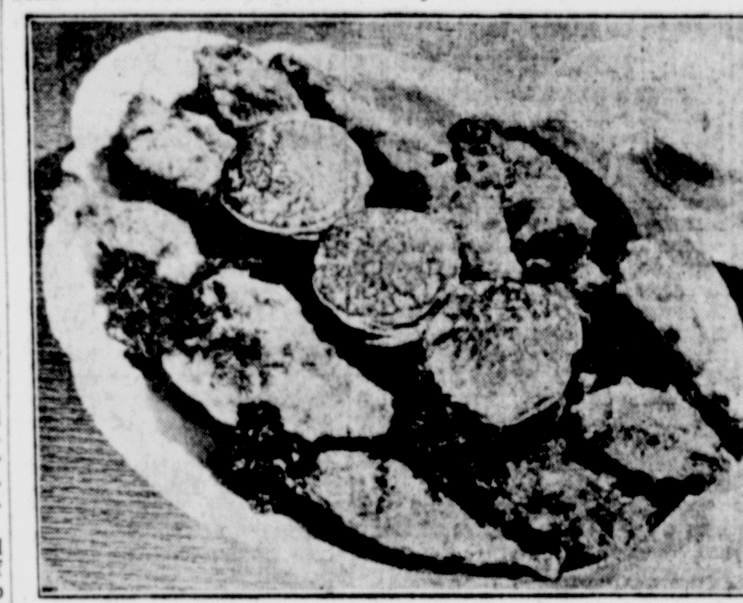

Well, whatever you're interested in concerning any kind of poultry or game birds, the fourth Cookbooklet in the Kingston Daily Freeman's series of 20, will bring you recipes and suggestions to answer every need.

Speaking of turnovers, here's an elegant recipe to whip up, and you can use leftover chicken for it, too.

Chicken Turnovers

1½ cup minced cooked chicken
¾ cup thick white sauce
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 recipe pastry
1 egg white

Combine chicken, white sauce and parsley. Roll pastry to ¼ inch thickness, cut into squares and brush with egg white. Place 2 tablespoons of chicken mixture on each square, fold over and press edges together with a fork. Place on baking sheet. Prick upper crust to allow for escape of steam. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) until browned. Serve with gravy or seasoned white sauce. Serves 4.

A happy accompaniment for that luscious Fried Chicken is little, tender pancakes. Crisp fritters or hot biscuits and honey are additional suggestions from "250 Ways to Prepare Poultry and Game Birds," our newest Cookbooklet.

Some time when you feel like serving chicken in a truly unusual way, try this exotic dish:

Chicken Pilau

4-lb. roasting chicken
1 teaspoon curry powder mixed with 1 cup water
2 cups uncooked rice
4 cups chicken drippings and water, combined
4 tablespoons fat.

Miss Bleeker is a junior student.

Mrs. Bishop and children are spending the week-end with her mother in Jamaica, L. I.

Miss Ellen Harvey spent Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Harvey.

Albert Reid, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Reid, a student at the Irving School for Boys at Tarrytown is spending the holiday vacation with his parents.

Arctura Scoville of the Normal School entertained at its annual neighborhood dessert party Tuesday evening. The rooms were decorated in keeping with the Thanksgiving season. Pumpkin and mince pie, nuts, grapes and coffee were served. After this repast the members and guests enjoyed an old-fashioned sing-fete.

Mrs. Charles Turner was given a stork shower at the home of Mrs. Alvin Beatty Wednesday evening. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Elmer Bostock and Mrs. Lanson Rhinehardt. Pink and blue paper streamers hung from the chandelier into a maple play pen on the end of each streamer was fastened a name card for each guest. A poem "Baby Street" was read by Mrs. Frank Elliott. Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. Those present were Mrs. Leslie Oakley, Mrs. Harry Oakley, Mrs. Laceson Thomas, Mrs. Minnie Stoddard, Miss Bertha Metcalf, Mrs. George Stockin, Mrs. Frank Elliott, Mrs. Joseph Graham, Mrs. Douglas Alverson, Mrs. Leland Walthery, Mrs. Emma Hoyt, and Mrs. Herman DuBois. Others who were unable to attend were Mrs. Oscar Sutherland, Mrs. Frank Gulnac, Miss Margaret Newton, Mrs. Kaland, Mrs. Walter Smith, Mrs. Helen Smith, Mrs. Albert Wright and Mrs. Arthur Ingraham.

Rosella Randolph of New Paltz, daughter of George Randolph of Johnstown, Pa., was married to Creighton Lynch of Marlborough by the Rev. St. Clair Vannix of New Paltz Episcopal Church, November 15. The bride is a sister of Mrs. George Meade of Grove street, New Paltz.

SOUND THE ALARM
Glen Burnie, Md. (AP)—Grocer Carl Wagner was hard to convince that lightning would strike the same place more than once. But when burglars robbed his store three times Grocer Wagner decided it was time to do something about it. He installed a photoelectric burglar alarm and recently the alarm bell in his house set up a clamor. Wagner called the Ferndale police, who raced 2½ miles in about two and a half minutes to capture a very surprised burglar hard at work.

A Masterpiece In Crochet

Basque-Bodice Frock Is Young

Marian Martin
PATTERN 9911

The younger set has adopted the "Sweater" silhouette as their very own—it's so becoming! The bodice of Pattern 9911 by Marian Martin fits smoothly down to the hips—where the skirt swings out in a graceful flare . . . the two panels in front aid this effect. The bodice is fitted by darts at the waist, and accented by the unusual rounded yoke at the neck that continues in the back, and may be made of contrast fabric. Groups of tiny little buttons are pert, too, used to accent the center seam in front, and a further optional detail is the lapped seam at the hips . . . let the Sew Chart help with such details. Three-quarter sleeves are smart—but you may make them long or short instead.

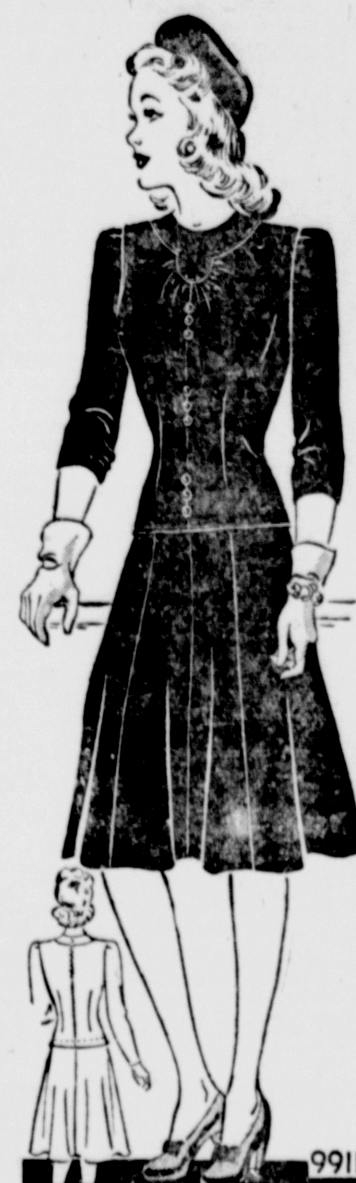

Pattern 9911 may be ordered only in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19. Size 13 requires 3½ yards 39 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coin for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Order the Marian Martin Winter Pattern Book today—and give your wardrobe gay holiday "seasoning!" You'll find page after page of smart sew-your-own ideas. Easy-to-make, original styles for dress-up wear . . . tailored in the military mood . . . "smoothie" styles for the young . . . active-life snow and sun togs . . . slimming budgeter modes . . . inspiring gift tips. St. Peter's To Hold Dedication Service At Stone Ridge

Memorials will be dedicated at a special service tomorrow evening, November 26, at 8 p. m., in St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Stone Ridge. The Right Rev. Charles K. Gilbert, S. T. D., Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of New York will bless the recently installed memorials.

The new altar rail is the gift of all the parishoners of St. Peter's Church in memory of the faithful departed who have died since the Rev. Auguste F. Marlier, priest in charge of St. Peter's Church, came to High Falls. The altar rail is in memory of the following: Mrs. Matilda Van Winkle, Mrs. Mollie C. Craft, Charles C. Hardenberg, Miss Mary E. Hardenbergh, George W. Traphagen, Miss Mary C. Craft, Mrs. Mae Traphagen, Mrs. Anna Louise Traphagen, George LaWare, Hollister Sturges, Mrs. Christina M. Grier, John Basten.

The order of service will be as follows: The Church's One Foundation. The Litany.

"For Thy Dear Saints, O Lord" Blessing of altar rail and re-dedication.

We Love the Place, O God. Address by Bishop Gilbert.

"Let Saints on Earth in Concert Sing."

All are welcome to attend this service.

"Plays of Ideas" Is Topic at Sorosis Meeting

The meeting of Sorosis was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Ward Brigham, Linderman avenue.

Immediately after the business meeting a roll call of all members was held in regard to plays now running on Broadway.

Mrs. A. Noble Graham gave the paper for the day on the "Plays of Ideas" which were started during the later part of the 19th century and the early 20th century. There was a significant change in drama at this time. There was more self-expression in what was written and more American writers were established. Previously the largest share of the plays had been of foreign origin.

Outstanding playwrights of the time were William Vaughn Moody and Rachel Crothers, the first prominent woman playwright and known as the dean of women playwrights. Mrs. Graham gave the story of Moody's play, "The Great Divide." Rachel Crothers is still writing today and one of her recent successes, "Susan and God," was brought to the attention of the club. Mrs. Graham gave a story of the play and several readings from it. These writers were successful in bringing the change in the drama for their plays showed more flexibility and adaptability than the other works of the time.

The next meeting will be held at 3 p. m. instead of the usual time and will be at the home of Mrs. R. Gardner Burns, 100 Manor avenue, Monday, December 1.

20th Century Club Continues Study of South America

Further study of South America was made Monday afternoon by the members of the 20th Century Club at the meeting held at the home of Mrs. C. B. Dickinson, 152 Pearl street.

Mrs. G. N. Wood gave an interesting imaginary trip over the Panama and Paraguay rivers showing various transportation facilities one might enjoy in travelling and sight-seeing through the various regions. A special trip was made to the Marvellous Cataract of Igazu at the Brazilian-Argentine border.

Mrs. J. C. Fraser's paper on courtship and wedding customs in her absence was read by Mrs. Dickinson. Many of the old customs are rapidly disappearing through outside influences. Mrs. S. M. Taylor mentioned several outstanding leaders of Paraguay. General D. Moragga, president, is interested in the educational problems of his country. Juan Jose Soler, another leader, is the present minister from Paraguay to the United States. He is a writer for many publications on legal and international affairs.

Mrs. D. F. Wells gave many unusual recipes for South American dishes. Among them were mentioned cassava root, a shrub which grows to the height of eight feet and which is cultivated for its tuberous root. This yields a nutritious starch from which cassava bread and tapioca are made. A favorite beverage is yerba mate, a tea made from the dry leaves of Brazilian holly and used in most of the South American countries. The next meeting will be held December 8 at the home of Mrs. W. S. Eltinge, 105 St. James street. The club will have Argentina as its subject for the day discussing family life of Buenos Aires and the development of the "Spirit of Peace." The topics will be followed by a musical.

Mrs. A. A. Schultz Honored At Dessert Bridge Party

Mrs. John Kelly and Mrs. Reynolds Becker were co-hostesses at a dessert bridge party at the home of Mrs. Kelly on Lucas avenue, in honor of Mrs. A. A. Schultz of Madison avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Schultz will leave Kingston to make their home in Ellenville December 1. A farewell gift from her friends was presented to Mrs. Schultz. Those present were Mrs. J. F. Kelly, Mrs. A. Johnson, Mrs. A. Horning, Mrs. S. Hankinson, Mrs. C. Davis, Mrs. R. Becker, Mrs. J. St. Clair, Mrs. R. Racette, Mrs. J. Halstead, Mrs. J. Halbert, Mrs. S. Bliss, Mrs. J. Farrell, Mrs. A. McLaughlin and Mrs. H. V. Clayton.

Helping Hand Society

The Ladies' Helping Hand Society will hold an all day quilting bee, Thursday, November 27, at the club rooms, corner Broadway and Brewster street. Dinner will be served at noon.

Pastor to Celebrate Silver Jubilee

In December in New Paltz and Gardner, the Rev. Christopher B. McCann, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, New Paltz, and St. Charles Church, Gardner, will observe the Silver Jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood.

The men and women of the Rev. Father McCann's parish have joined in one committee, on which every member is serving, to make the observance one long to be remembered. A spiritual bouquet will be presented to the Rev. Father McCann by his parishioners, consisting of a Rosary, a Mass and a Holy Communion. And in addition a testimonial dinner will be tendered in his honor Sunday evening, December 14, at the Ireland Hotel, Gardner.

The Rev. Father McCann, upon graduating from the Cathedral Parochial School, entered Manhattan Prep, in 1907, and later studied at Fordham, where he specialized in Latin. He entered St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, September, 1911, and was ordained to the Priesthood at St. Patrick's Cathedral, December 20, 1916, by his uncle, the late Rev. Thomas F. Cusack, Auxiliary Bishop of New York. He received a commission in the United States Navy, October 20, 1918, in which he served as chaplain until his discharge July 5, 1919, being commissioned as a Lieutenant Junior Grade in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

After having served as an assistant at the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, Manhattan, Father McCann was appointed pastor of St. Joseph's, New Paltz and St. Charles, Gardner, in June, 1934, by the late Patrick Cardinal Hayes.

Ulster Well Represented At National Conference

The National 4-H Club Congress is being held in Chicago. Represented at the National Dress Revue are dresses made by Miss Ellen Schaffner of the Lake Katrine Homemaking Club. Miss Schaffner is in her sixth year of club work and is a high school graduate. The state delegate to the National Dress Revue is Miss Margaret Lathers of Montgomery county.

New York state's healthiest girl, Miss Nancy Boice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pratt Boice of Lake Katrine, will represent New York state at the congress next week. She will leave Saturday to make the trip, stopping at Cleveland, Detroit, Canada, Niagara Falls and returning Saturday, December 6. She is a first year student at Delhi Technical Institute where she is majoring in nutrition and she is in her 10th year of club work.

Miss Carolyn Morehouse, also of Lake Katrine, will make the trip to Chicago as Ulster county's representative chosen by her record books of club activities. This is her seventh year of club work. All three of the girls are members of the Lake Katrine group whose leader is Mrs. Frank Ennist.

Hommel-Van Valkenburgh

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Anna Van Valkenburgh, daughter of Mrs. Charles Van Valkenburgh of Quarryville, to Donald Hommel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hommel of MacDonald street, Saugerties. The wedding took place Saturday evening, November 15, at the Methodist Church parsonage in Woodstock and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lester L. Haws. Attendants were Miss Jean Schoonmaker and Foster Davis. Mr. and Mrs. Hommel will reside in Saugerties.

Last Tuesday evening the Meadow Lark Patrol of Troop 5 met at Teri's Beauty Salon, Broadway for a lecture on beauty aids and personal daintiness. The girls were free to ask any question. There was such interest shown that Teri invited them to meet again next Tuesday.

Bowling Challenge

The girls of Troop 5 are not very expert, but they issue a friendly challenge to other troops to meet them in a game of bowling. They bowl every Saturday at 10:30 a. m., at Emerick's on Albany avenue.

The troops would like to guarantee an attendance of 40 girls, each girl to bowl three games.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Avallone of New York are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a baby boy. Mrs. Avallone was formerly Miss Norma Bradford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bradford of Edenville.

John Sammond of Woodhaven, L. I., was the week-end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Miller in Port Ewen.

Miss Shirley Fowler of Port Ewen, a student at New Paltz Normal School, is practicing teaching at Hillsdale.

John R. Ench of Clifton, N. J., is spending the week at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Van Wageningen, 22 Taylor street.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Burger and Mrs. Mae Burger of Ulster Park spent Thanksgiving day as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brown of Poughkeepsie.

J. Wilbur Wannop of 275 West Chestnut street, has been elected to the Sphinx Head, senior honorary society at Cornell University. Members are chosen on the basis of participation in extra-curricular activities.

Miss Katherine Myer of New York returned to her home after spending the holiday week-end with her sister, Mrs. Albert E. Milliken of the Hurley road.

Should Tissue Paper Be Removed from Visiting Cards?

I know—and so does everyone else—that the object of covering engravings and die stampings with tissue paper is to prevent the ink from smudging. Therefore, in answering a firm of engravers who ask me about the propriety of omitting these papers, now that the process they use eliminates all possibility of smudging, there is certainly no good reason for insisting that tissue papers be inserted as heretofore; and the answer "Oh yes, please include the papers" sounds, even to myself, the height of absurdity, since it is my custom and that of every one who ever has sent Christmas cards or invitations or announcements to me, to remove the papers before mailing them (excepting in very damp climates). Yet now I suddenly feel very much as though I were asked by a leading firm of silversmiths whether they must continue making cotton flannel bags.

Suddenly bits of engraver's tissue paper and silversmith's bags have become things to cling to. This does not mean that we should ever leave our visiting cards with bits of tissue paper clinging to them nor should papers be left in any engraved forms—unless we live in a soppingly damp climate, or unless we have ordered invitations or announcements so late that the ink has not been given a chance to dry.

In other words, we do not usually enclose tissue paper in our addressed envelopes any more than we leave our silver in the cotton flannel bags when it is set out for use, but we do like the sense of quality as well as the assurance of protection of both.

1941 Version of Mrs. Grundy

Dear Mrs. Post: Would today's Mrs. Grundy criticize the propriety of letting my daughter, aged 17, invite a boy of her own age whom she has known most of her life—and whose parents are old friends of my husband's and mine to come in and help her cook supper on an evening when we are going out and she will otherwise be left alone? Usually she invites one of her girl friends, but this boy really likes cooking and probably would enjoy it more than the girls. Her father and I will be home quite early in the evening and she will not be left sitting up late.

Answer: According to today's standards, this situation isn't so much a question of propriety as of their individual characteristics and their probable behavior. Taking for granted—since you evidently do not disapprove—that both are above question, I can't imagine that any modern Mrs. Grundy will find any impropriety in letting him take supper with her.

Long Distance Dinner

Long Distance Dinner
Huron, S. D. — Mr. and Mrs. Aaron A. Dorrell of Kansas City took Ohio and Massachusetts guests out for a pheasant dinner when they had to fly 828 miles to get it. Dorrell boasted about the South Dakota pheasant, he had taken. The guests asked him to produce. Dorrell, a Mid-Continent Airlines vice president, ordered the pheasant dinner by phone. The party arrived by private plane and ate as the dinner was completed and returned to Kansas City immediately after dessert.

Blackouts, few traffic police and her factors have tended to increase fatalities on Great Britain's highways, the Department of Agriculture reported.

Geneva, N. Y. (AP) — No need for alarm if your evergreens are turning brown, according to Dr. F. L. Gambrell of the state experiment station. He points out that it is simply nature's way of pruning the trees. Particularly affected are arborvitae and pine.

Chicago, Nov. 25 (AP)—The seven players leading the National Football League scoring parade are members of the top three teams. The new York Giants, newly-crowned eastern title-holders, have two men in the top seven, the Chicago Bears have three and the Green Bay Packers two. The Bears and Packers are battling for the western flag. It's still Don Hutson in the No. 1 spot. The Green Bay end now has 75 points on nine touchdowns, 38 conversion points and one field goal. Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 25 (The Special News Service)—Now that baseball men are about ready to start to Jacksonville, Fla., for the Minor League meetings and a little warm sunshine, more and better "type trades" are appearing in the papers. . . . The scribes apparently have given up on selling Hank Greenberg for the Tigers and are trading Rudy York instead. Another report is that the Browns may peddle Chet Laabs to the Senators. . . . Most complicated story says the Phils are ready to send Bobby Bragan to the Giants providing a dicker can be arranged to get them Claude Chatbitt, Jack Graham, Ed Head and Al Sherer, Brooklyn's best quartet of farmhands, in exchange for Danny Litwhiler. . . . Ted Williams tells friends he doesn't blame the sports writers for picking Joe DiMaggio as the most valuable player because "he did a man-sized job." . . . He adds he will make 'em pick Williams next season.

No Coaching, Coach
Steve Owen tells this on himself: In Sunday's Giants-Redskins game he noticed that Hank Soar was turning around frequently to look at the clock. Steve was afraid Sammy Baugh would pitch a pass right at Hank's head, so he yelled to "get them Claude Chatbitt, Jack Graham, Ed Head and Al Sherer, Brooklyn's best quartet of farmhands, in exchange for Danny Litwhiler. . . . Ted Williams tells friends he doesn't blame the sports writers for picking Joe DiMaggio as the most valuable player because "he did a man-sized job." . . . He adds he will make 'em pick Williams next season.
